

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. I do not believe that it is in the public interest to broadcast a clearly political (and likely false) documentary without allowing alternative views to be heard. It is a shame that a single corporation is able to reach a quarter of the US population with such blatant distortions of the truth which are clearly designed to help reelect the current president.

thank you.
